MARKETING RULES FOR THE AUDIO-VISUAL RIGHTS OF THE NEW PRIMERA FEDERACION CATEGORY AT INTERNATIONAL LEVEL (EXCLUDING SPAIN AND SOME EU COUNTRIES) FOR THE 2022/2023, 2023/2024 AND 2024/25 SEASONS

REAL FEDERACIÓN ESPAÑOLA DE FÚTBOL

1.- INTRODUCTION

The competent bodies of the RFEF approved the configuration of a new competitive structure where, in addition to the current Segunda División B (which is now commercially known as Segunda Federacion) and the current Tercera División (which is now commercially known as Tercera RFEF), both state-level and non-professional competitions, a new competitive category was created. This is different from the previous ones and is placed between Segunda División B (commercially known as Segunda Federacion) and Segunda División (an official professional competition).

This new division is the result of this restructuring of all men's football competitions started in the 2021/22 season and involved the creation of a new category different from the others since it is positioned between professional and non-professional competitions.

This new division shall comprise 40 clubs that shall be divided into two groups of 20 teams, preferably based on geographical assignment. These groups may, in turn, be subdivided into two subgroups of 10 in each of the competitive phases when the circumstances of the competition so require and/or when such a format may provide a greater competitive richness and offer greater value to the competition.

The inaugural season of this new division featured the same 40 clubs outlined that came from 36 teams in Segunda División B or Segunda Federacion and 4 teams in Segunda División.

In the 2022/23 season and beyond, the competition shall continue to comprise 40 teams, 26 of which shall remain in the same division in which they have already competed, 10 clubs shall come via promotion from Segunda División B (commercially known as Segunda Federacion) and 4 from Segunda División, via relegation.

The category for which bids are invited is a category qualified as non-professional, ranked above Segunda División B (Segunda RFEF for mere commercial and branding purposes) and below Segunda División (professional). This category is organised solely and exclusively by the RFEF and forms part of its competitive structure as an official competition for all purposes.

The RFEF makes this offer of joint marketing of the audio-visual rights under the protection of the provisions of Royal Decree-Law 5/2015, of 30 April, and in the modifications instrumented through Royal Decree-Law 15/2020, of 21 April, on urgent complementary measures to support the economy and employment. Accordingly, Art. 1.1 of Royal Decree-Law 5/2015 is worded as follows:

And its Art. 8.1, paragraph one:

“The Real Federación Española de Fútbol may directly market the audio-visual rights of the King’s Cup, the Spanish Super Cup and the other national competitions that it organises, both men’s and women’s, pursuant to Article 4”.

3.- DESCRIPTION OF THE LOTS.

3.1.- The RFEF offers the option of submitting bids for the two lots offered for the Primera Federacion for the 2022/2023, 2023/2024 and 2024/25 seasons. Lot 1 shall be offered by country and region in accordance with Appendix 1 and Lot 2 is offered together for all countries indicated in Appendix 1.

LOT 1	All the live matches of every matchday corresponding to PRIMERA FEDERACION RFEF including the playoffs for promotion from PRIMERA FEDERACION to Segunda División
LOT 2	A single exclusive package is offered for all Appendix 1 countries consisting of the right to stream matches live on the internet via Betting Websites and Betting Apps.

3.2.- Description of the competitions.

The Primera Federacion competition corresponds to the category classified by the RFEF and for the purposes of the Federation as non-professional with high levels of professionalisation among its players... It is a new category ranked between Segunda División B (Segunda Federacion for commercial and branding purposes) and Segunda División of the professional competition.

It is an official state-wide competition organised entirely and exclusively by the RFEF.

In the 2022/2023 season the category shall comprise 40 clubs/teams divided into 2 groups of 20 teams each. The assignment of the clubs to one of the two groups shall be based, essentially, on geographical criteria.

The competition model foresees that due to external circumstances (e.g. force majeure or similar) or sporting assessment of the competition, the groups may be divided into subgroups in order to finish off the competition or to improve its competitive nature and social impact.

Where the division of the competition into subgroups is not for reasons of force majeure or similar reasons, the awardee shall be entitled to terminate the contract.

The 40 teams in the competition shall be made up of the 26 teams that had already competed in that category the previous season and did not occupy relegation or promotion positions, joined by a further 10 teams that shall be promoted from Segunda División B (Segunda Federacion) and the four teams relegated from Segunda División.

REAL FEDERACIÓN ESPAÑOLA DE FÚTBOL

3.2.2.- Regular phase and playoff

Primera Federacion shall comprise 40 clubs, divided into two groups of 20 teams.

The competition shall take place in two phases, of which, the first will correspond to the regular phase and the second to the Play Off of Primera Federacion.

I. Regular Phase.

It shall be set over a total of 38 matchdays in which the participating clubs will meet for the home-and-away matches through a points system, setting the final classification according to the points obtained by each of the clubs, with three points per winning match, one per drawn match and zero per game lost.

Clubs that qualify first of each of the two groups will directly move into the National League Championship of Segunda División.

Clubs that qualify second to fifth of the two groups will participate in the Play Off of Primera Federacion.

Teams placed 16th to 20th of each of the groups shall be relegated to Segunda B (Segunda Federacion).

II. Play Off of Primera Federacion.

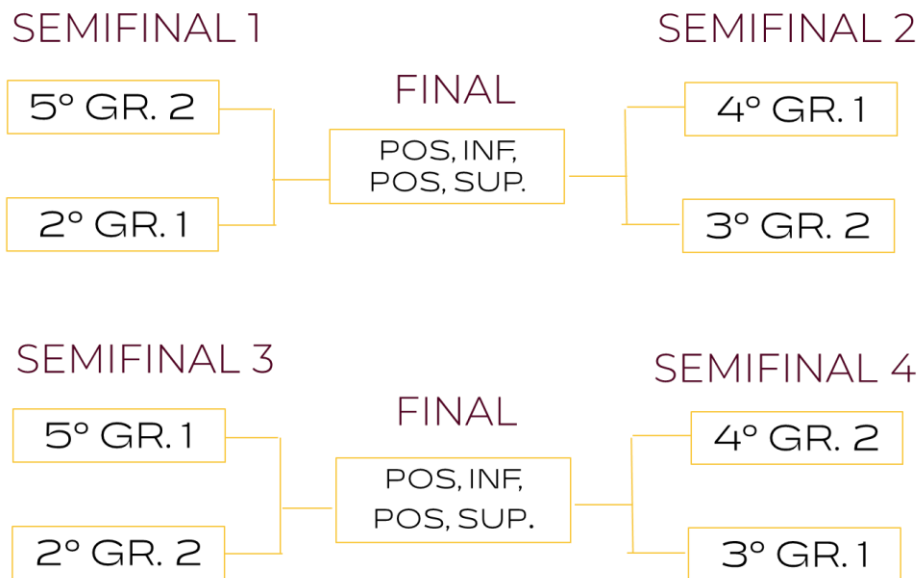

This will be developed through the direct elimination system, as set forth in the General Regulations, with each knockout round being played on a two-legged basis.

The eight teams who finished between second and fifth place in each one of the group stages, playing against teams from another group.

The matches will consist of two legs forming the semi-finals, with the first leg being played at the home ground of the team that finished lower in the league season, with the draw for the matches remaining as follows:

REAL FEDERACIÓN ESPAÑOLA DE FÚTBOL

In the Play Off matches for the Primera Federacion that will be played in the knockout round will be arranged as follows:

1. The winner will be the team that, after the final whistle of the return leg, has attained the greater difference of goals in its favor, calculating this by subtracting those conceded from the total scored over the two matches.
2. Should the match end as a score-draw over the two legs of the knockout, extra time will be played of 30 minutes divided into two halves of fifteen minutes each one. Once extra time has concluded, the winner will be the team that has scored the most goals during extra time.
3. If upon the conclusion of extra time, both teams had scored the same number of goals or there had been no score, the winner will be the highest placed team in the standard league season.

The two teams that win each one of the finals will be promoted, along with the teams that finished first in each group, to the Second Division, whenever these meet the corporate and economic criteria set forth by the National League of Professional Football for their incorporation into said Second Division, or the Convention entered into between the same and the RFEF, as well as the terms provided for in the Sports Law, and the legal provisions as they affect Sporting Limited Companies, being duly applicable, should the promotion be subject to a veto, the rules and principles contained in the RFEF's General Regulations.

This competition system shall apply without prejudice to the extraordinary rules approved in exceptional cases derived from COVID-19.

It includes a possible match to decide the champion of Primera Federacion between the first two teams, either through a one-off match at a neutral ground or two home and away games, both organised by the RFEF.

In any of the seasons covered by the contract, the competitive system and the competition phases, as well as the number of matchdays may be modified due to force majeure, with the Delegate Committee of the RFEF Assembly being responsible for determining the new competition rules in order to adapt these to the grounds of force majeure that may arise during the time in which they persist in whole or in part.

3.2.3.- In any of the seasons covered by the contract, the competitive system and the competition phases, as well as the number of matchdays may be modified due to force majeure, with the Delegate Committee of the RFEF Assembly being responsible for determining the new competition rules in order to adapt these to the grounds of force majeure that may arise during the time in which they persist in whole or in part.

In any case, if for reasons of force majeure or by agreement of the RFEF with the favourable report of the contract award body in Spain, a competitive system in subgroups format is set, this model would be based on creating two subgroups of 10 in each group (also based on geographical criteria) that would play a regular league through a one-off match where the teams that finish in the top five of each subgroup would play a second phase, also based on a one-off match, and including the points obtained in the first phase, the purpose of which would be to determine the winner that would be automatically promoted to Segunda División and the classification of the teams to dispute the playoffs for promotion from among the teams that finish from second to fifth place.

Those classified in the sixth to 10th positions of the initial phase would play a second phase involving a one-off match with those classified in the same position in the other subgroup of their group, to determine the five teams that would be in the lower positions and would be automatically relegated to Segunda Federacion. In this second phase of the relegation group, the points obtained in the first phase would also be carried over.

Fourth.- That, given the common interest of the parties acting herein, they agree to sign this CONTRACT FOR THE EXPLOITATION RIGHTS OF AUDIO-VISUAL CONTENT (hereinafter the "Contract"), that shall be governed by the following,

CLAUSES

One.- Participating teams and competitions.

1.1.- The Primera Federación competition corresponds to the category classified by the RFEF and for the purposes of the Federation as non-professional. It is a new category created in the 2021/22 ranked between Segunda División B (Segunda Federacion for commercial and branding purposes) and Segunda Division of the professional competition.

It is an official state-wide competition organised entirely and exclusively by the RFEF.

In the 2022/2023 season the category shall comprise 40 clubs/teams divided into 2 groups of 20 teams each. The assignment of the clubs to one of the two groups shall be based, essentially, on geographical criteria.

The competition model foresees that due to external circumstances (e.g. force majeure or similar) or sporting assessment of the competition, the groups may be divided into subgroups in order to finish off the competition or to improve its competitive nature and social impact.

Where the division of the competition into subgroups is not for reasons of force majeure or similar reasons, the awardee shall be entitled to terminate the contract.

In the 2021/22 season and following the 40 teams in the competition shall be made up of the 26 teams that had already competed in that category the previous season and did not occupy relegation or promotion positions, joined by a further 10 teams that shall be promoted from Segunda División B (Segunda Federacion) and the four teams relegated from Segunda División.

1.2.- Regular phase and playoff

Primera Federacion RFEF shall comprise 40 clubs, divided into two groups of 20 teams.

The competition shall take place in two phases, of which, the first will correspond to the regular phase and the second to the Play Off of Primera Federacion.

I. Regular Phase.

It shall be set over a total of 38 matchdays in which the participating clubs will meet for the home-and-away matches through a points system, setting the final classification according to the points obtained by each of the clubs, with three points per winning match, one per drawn match and zero per game lost.

Clubs that qualify first of each of the two groups will directly move into the National League Championship of Segunda División.

Clubs that qualify second to fifth of the two groups will participate in the Play Off of Primera Federacion.

Teams placed 16th to 20th of each of the groups shall be relegated to Segunda B (Segunda Federacion).

II. Play Off of Primera Federacion.

This will be developed through the direct elimination system, as set forth in the General Regulations, with each knockout round being played on a two-legged basis.

The eight teams who finished between second and fifth place in each one of the group stages, playing against teams from another group.

The matches will consist of two legs forming the semi-finals, with the first leg being played at the home ground of the team that finished lower in the league season, with the draw for the matches remaining as follows:

In the Play Off matches for the Primera Federacion that will be played in the knockout round will be arranged as follows:

1. The winner will be the team that, after the final whistle of the return leg, has attained the greater difference of goals in its favor, calculating this by subtracting those conceded from the total scored over the two matches.
2. Should the match end as a score-draw over the two legs of the knockout, extra time will be played of 30 minutes divided into two halves of fifteen minutes each one. Once extra time has concluded, the winner will be the team that has scored the most goals during extra time.
3. If upon the conclusion of extra time, both teams had scored the same number of goals or there had been no score, the winner will be the highest placed team in the standard league season.

The two teams that win each one of the finals will be promoted, along with the teams that finished first in each group, to the Second Division, whenever these meet the corporate and economic criteria set forth by the National League of Professional Football for their incorporation into said Second Division, or the Convention entered into between the same and the RFEF, as well as the terms provided for in the Sports Law, and the legal provisions as they affect Sporting Limited Companies, being duly applicable, should the promotion be subject to a veto, the rules and principles contained in the RFEF's General Regulations.

This competition system shall apply without prejudice to the extraordinary rules approved in exceptional cases derived from COVID-19.

It includes a possible match to decide the champion of Primera Federacion between the first two teams, either through a one-off match at a neutral ground or two home and away games, both organised by the RFEF.

1.3.-In any of the seasons covered by the contract, the competitive system and the competition phases, as well as the number of matchdays may be modified due to force majeure, with the Delegate Committee of the RFEF Assembly being responsible for determining the new competition rules in order to adapt these to the grounds of force majeure that may arise during the time in which they persist in whole or in part.

In any case, if for reasons of force majeure or by agreement of the RFEF with the favourable report of the awarded operator in Spain, a competitive system in subgroups format is set, this model would be based on creating two subgroups of 10 in each group (also based on geographical criteria) that would play a regular league through a one-off match where the teams that finish in the top five of each subgroup would play a second phase, also based on a one-off match, and including the points obtained in the first phase, the purpose of which would be to determine the winner that would be automatically promoted to Segunda División and the classification of the teams to dispute the playoffs for promotion from among the teams that finish from second to fifth place.

Those classified in the sixth to 10th positions of the initial phase would play a second phase involving a one-off match with those classified in the same position in the other subgroup of their group, to determine the five teams that would be in the lower positions and would be automatically relegated to Segunda Federacion. In this second phase of the relegation group, the points obtained in the first phase would also be carried over.

Second.- Scope of the assignment

For the purposes of this contract, the RFEF assigns to the OPERATOR the exploitation of broadcasting rights of all matches of the PRIMERA FEDERACION in accordance with the following conditions:

1.- Broadcasting territory:

2.- Exclusivity

Exclusive right to live broadcasting of at least two (2) of the live of all clubs participating in the competition matches.

The exclusivity mentioned in these rules does not affect the right of the clubs participating in the matches to be able to record images for the mere internal purposes of technical analysis of the matches and their use for training purposes and monitoring of their own players or those of opposing teams. The granting of permission or refusal of permission in respect of such recordings shall be the responsibility of the team playing the match as the home team.

Neither does the exclusivity prevent participating clubs and the RFEF from recording and broadcasting images of moments before or after the match, of the benches, as well as any other image that is not of the match being played on the field of play.

3.- Broadcasting guarantee

The operator guarantees the live broadcasting of at least two of the available games of each matchday.

The broadcasting shall be open or encrypted via a traditional television feed (DTT) or via cable, satellite, Hertzian waves, ADSL or IPTV, Internet (including OTT format), WiFi, 3G, 4G technologies and future generations, mobile portals, websites, and/or streaming, as well as any other system or modality existing or to be developed in the future and on any device. This includes the segment known as Horeca, which includes hotels, bars, cafés and restaurants.

4.- Sub-licences

The operator may grant sub-licences with the prior and express authorisation of the RFEF, and the sub-licensor must guarantee compliance by the sub-licensee with the obligations established in the lot and ensure that the sub-licensee complies with all the conditions established for bidders in accordance with the provisions of this contract.

When applying for the sub-licence, the channel and its audience shall be detailed, and such application must be made at least 10 calendar days prior to the broadcast date of the matches to be sub-licensed.

The RFEF shall reply to the application within five calendar days of receiving all the complete documentation necessary to analyse the application and in the absence of a reply within the period indicated, the application shall be considered to have been granted. If the RFEF refuses authorisation, reasons must be given.

5.- Delayed broadcasts

The operator may broadcast deferred matches in an unlimited and non-exclusive way for each match in its entirety, after its recording and within the season in which such matches are played.

Three.- Scope of conferred rights.

3.2. The Audio-visual Rights granted include, inter alia, the following:

3.3.- Non-exclusive rights: the OPERATOR expressly recognises that the RFEF, the Participating Teams and/or third parties hold the following rights:

a) Clubs taking part in the competition that have their own distribution channel dedicated thematically to the sporting activity of the participating club or entity and that have a DTT television licence may broadcast the match solely and exclusively on that television channel both live and deferred in its entirety and/or highlights of the match. In the case of the live match, they shall be able to do so for those matches they play as the home team.

In the event of broadcasting the full match on a delayed basis, they shall be able to do so both when they play as the home team and when they play as the away team.

For a delayed broadcast, a minimum of 12 hours must elapse from the end of the match, unless that game was also broadcast live as a home match, in which case it can be broadcast at any time.

In all cases clubs must guarantee that the live match can only be watched within the territory of Spain.

b) The RFEF and the Clubs playing the matches both as home and away teams shall be able to produce image clips on their official profiles on the Social Media apps, RFEF branded channels or those of the clubs on digital platforms (YouTube and similar) and the clubs' official websites. Such use shall be restricted to five (5) minutes in total, and its publication after the end of the match. These highlights may be published worldwide.

c)The RFEF reserves the right to authorise Sponsors and/or Official Suppliers of the Competitions to use images of the Competition on the Sponsor's own platforms to promote their association with the Competition. The RFEF may also use the images of a match as a technological support for video-referring and/or for training purposes.

d)The Clubs that play matches as the home team and the RFEF, when the match is organised by it and/or is played on a neutral pitch, reserve the right to exploit the live feed, within the facilities where the sporting event takes place, of the audio-visual television feed corresponding to this event.

3.4.- The RFEF and participating clubs may make use of the right to archive all matches of the competition and any digital files including tokens or NFTs. Clubs playing home matches shall also have the right to archive the matches they play and may make use of them. In this regard, once the term of the corresponding marketing contract has expired, the OPERATOR shall be obliged to return to the RFEF or destroy any material generated as a result of the exploitation of the awarded lot, as well as any information held by virtue of the marketing contract, which may lead to an improper use of audio-visual rights beyond the term of the corresponding contract.

3.5.- The RFEF is co-owner, together with the clubs, of all the Intellectual Property Rights of the Competition.

Once the term of the marketing contract has expired, where appropriate, the RFEF and the participating Clubs/SAD, shall hold all the intellectual property rights over all the audio-visual content and recordings (files) that have been produced, and may be exploited in any medium or means, without any limitation whatsoever in a worldwide territorial scope for the maximum period of validity of such rights.

The Clubs' co-ownership of the Intellectual Property Rights of the Competition and the right in favour of the same of the intellectual property rights over all the contents and audio-visual recordings (files) that have been produced is recognised, exclusively, in favour of the Clubs whose rights have been commercialised through these Rules in the specific competition to which the same affects and when they play the match as the home team. And specifically, co-ownership in the Intellectual Property Rights of the Competition and the right in favour of the Clubs of the intellectual property rights over all the contents and audio-visual recordings (files) that have been generated.

3.6.- The broadcasting of the images referred to in section 3.4 a), b) and d) implies the right of the RFEF and/or the clubs to reproduce said images, but not to exploit them, without, therefore, being able to transfer said images to any third party.

3.7.- Rights that are not expressly granted in this bidding process, such as exploitation in other territories, betting, etc., are excluded from this process.

Five.-Feed.

The operator shall pay the RFEF or whoever it indicates for the technical costs derived from sending the live feed incurred by the RFEF. This audiovisual signal will be available in clean feed format or as an international signal with Spanish graphics.

These costs are independent from the price of the contract and may not be compensated, under no circumstance, with the final price paid for the award of rights.

The technical costs derived from sending the live feed from the location established by the RFEF in Spain to the international operator shall be borne by the latter, although the RFEF (or the company it designates) shall apportion the technical costs that may be common to sending these feeds to different international operators.

The Awardee shall be able to customise the production delivered by the operator in Spain or by the RFEF according to their preferences through the use of voiceovers, commentaries and appearances by their announcers, narrators and commentators.
